Tiffany P. Hogan, Ph.D., CCC-SLP

Tiffany P. Hogan is an Assistant Professor and Director of the Link N Literacy Lab. She studies the genetic, neurological, and behavioral links between oral and written language development with a focus on co-morbid speech and language disorders. Dr. Hogan's research is funded by the National Institutes of Health, Institute of Education Sciences, the ASHA Foundation, the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association, and the International Dyslexia Association.

Link N Literacy Lab Mission Statement

The Link N Literacy Lab's goal is to increase educational opportunities for children and adults by improving early intervention and remediation of reading disabilities.

Literacy development:

Implications for students with special learning needs

In this seminar, Dr. Hogan will share with parents and educators the Simple View of Reading, and how it relates to the changing nature of reading comprehension across grades. The Simple View states that reading comprehension is composed of word recognition and language comprehension. Using this model, Dr. Hogan will share implications for the assessment and treatment of children with special learning needs, including children with Down syndrome. She will also highlight techniques for improving both word recognition and comprehension, which can be used by parents and educators alike.

Down Syndrome Association for Families of Nebraska (DSAF)

DSAF is a non-profit organization that provides support for individuals with Down syndrome, their families, friends, educators, and professionals who share in their lives. Every person with Down syndrome is an individual who has a unique purpose and abilities. The Down Syndrome Association for Families provides networking and a positive vision for the future.
