Suggestions for Implementation:

1. I have used the comprehension questions in two different ways. For classes with stronger readers or readers who needed accountability, I used the comprehension questions as a weekly quiz. For classes with struggling readers, I gave the comprehension questions to students as they were reading to help them monitor their own comprehension and retain important information from the text.

2. The discussion questions can be used informally within Book Clubs and Literature Circles as a basis for discussion, or they can be assigned for students to complete ahead of time. I usually give students a choice of several questions and allow them to select one or more to prepare for our group but encourage them to be ready to discuss all of them.

3. The "Looking at Language" and "Quotable Quotes" resources provide students with an opportunity to look more deeply at vivid figurative language and important quotes. These can be assigned ahead of time or used in conjunction with the discussion questions during Book Club or Literature Circles. These resources can also help support students if you choose to use Literature Circle roles (see below).

4. As part of our weekly Literature Circles or Book Clubs, I also have students complete one of our Literature Circle roles. For the first half of the year, all students have the same role. I have found we have more fruitful conversations when everyone has information to contribute to the same topic (characters, passages, vocabulary,..) Once students have mastered each job and are more comfortable responding to one another's ideas, I begin assigning multiple jobs within a group. These jobs can be found in my TPT store, Oakes's Acorns.
Pre-Reading Activity: The Quote Collector

For this activity, print the quotes below, and distribute one quote to each student, along with a copy of the “Quote Collector” recording sheet. Students will share quotes with one another and select 5 quotes (in addition to their own) to reflect on.

“I remember falling. At least I think I do. Or maybe that’s because I know I fell.” (1)

“This girl might be the key.” (6)

“All three of us wear wild, gleeful, unholy cake-eating grins. What kind of person am I?” (12)

“There’s a reason why I can’t live in my own town, and it has nothing to do with playing the piano. It’s Alpha Rat, and you know it.” (14)

“I can’t put my finger on it, but there’s something about my dad that makes me nervous...To see him is to want to like him. Maybe that’s the problem, I decide.” (6)

“I swear he looked at me like he’d never seen me before in his life. Like he hadn’t played a starring role in destroying my family.” (19)

“Thirteen years is a long time, Chase. There’s no way I can fill in all that empty space for you while we’re parked at the side of the road on the first day of school. You’re going to hear things about yourself - good and bad - that might surprise you. Just keep your cool, okay?” (21)
"What was so wrong about the old me that now I have to be somebody else?" (27)

"You must be somebody pretty special around here to get that kind of reaction from a guy who runs a car wash." (51)

"I'll bet she's forgotten it ever happened." (67)

"A lot of this stuff feels kind of harmless until something like Joel Weber happens." (85)

"I'm definitely famous at Hiawassee Middle. The part I can't figure out is whether I'm famous good or famous bad." (36)

"He was helpful. He had good ideas. He was nice. He's different." (56)

"But now I'm starting to wonder if that person is still inside me, emerging from the darkness, bit by bit, along with my memory." (94)

"Remembering is overrated." (96)
"I hope I never hate anybody as much as that girl hates me." (101)

"It's sad, because my project with Mr. Solway has turned into the biggest thing in my life." (129)

"I've got an idea for how we can jog his memory. You know, remind him who his real friends are." (158)

"It was easier when I could just hate his guts, no questions asked." (219)

"And yet you can’t help thinking you somehow deserve it; that you might be just a teeny bit less worthy than everybody else. After all, how come no one is picking on any of them?" (208)

"How many people ever get a do-over at life? Falling on my head was the best thing that ever happened to me." (239)
